Proposal - DEI Training for the City of Hutto, Texas Diversity and Inclusion Commission

In 2020, the city of Hutto, Texas, just northeast of Austin, formed a Diversity and Inclusion Commission. From the city website, the commission's purpose:

"The City of Hutto acknowledges that the history of discrimination in the United States of America continues to affect the privilege and/or lack of opportunity for people in the City; and the City of Hutto acknowledges that equality occurs when differences such as race, ethnicity, religion, gender, economic status, sexual orientation/gender identification, veteran status, marital status, language, age, disability, etc. do not determine a person's economic, social, or political access.

The Diversity and Inclusion Commission shall, to the extent possible, be broadly representative of economic status, race, color, religion, gender, national origin, ancestry, marital status, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation and gender identity."

At this point, they are seeking some meaningful in depth diversity, equity and inclusion training geared specifically for a commission like this to provide a common base for all commission members and to give them tools to move forward in an impactful way.

Stan Kimer of Total Engagement Consulting by Kimer is proposing a 3 hour workshop that can be delivered virtually in one session or divided into two 90-minute segments.

Training outline:

 - The inclusion continuum – moving from aware → active → advocate
 - What does it mean to be an ally or an advocate?
 - Actions that inclusive advocates take
 - How to have those “tough conversations”
 - Understanding some hard and deep areas: racism, sexism, white supremacy culture and more
- Taking action

A detailed 12 – 15 page handout would be provided along with the training.

Cost: $1,000 – this can be delivered in July.
